NEW VISIONS
FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

DEAR FUTURE COLLEGE STUDENT,

A college education is an important investment in your future. In fact, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, college graduates earn twice as much income as high school graduates over a lifetime. While the expense of attending college is significant, the benefits associated with a college degree dramatically outweigh the costs.

Financial aid in the form of scholarships and grants, loans, and federal work-study can make it possible for you to go to college even if you and your family cannot afford the full cost of tuition, room, and board.

The most attractive types of financial aid come in the form of scholarships and grants, as it is money that you do not have to pay back. Scholarships are great ways to both help lower the amount of tuition and fees that you and your family have to pay, as well as the loans a college may expect you to take out.

Like the college search process, the scholarship application process requires a lot of research and hard work. This scholarship guide provides a great starting point and focuses on scholarships available to students who live in New York City.

In this guide you will find scholarships that are awarded based on academic achievement; learning and physical disabilities; non-citizen and international status; gay and transgender concerns; and interests in community service, journalism, performance, the arts, science, writing, and much more.

Many of the scholarships in this booklet will require you to contact the scholarship program directly for further information and application materials. Where appropriate, you will need to write, e-mail, or call the scholarship program directly in order to receive more information.

I wish you great success in finding the financial resources to help you pay for your college education and remember to ask your counselor for help!

RESEARCH AND APPLY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

- Review this guide and select scholarships that you think you are eligible for—but don't stop there.
- Research scholarships.
- Visit your local library.
- Talk to your school guidance counselor or college advisor.
- Talk to your parent or guardian.
- Look online.

GET MORE INFORMATION

- Contact the scholarship provider directly to get details and an application.
- Know the application deadline, eligibility requirements, and what you need to submit.

PLAN AHEAD

- Make a list of scholarships you plan to apply for. Consider the fact that every little bit helps, so do not limit your search to scholarships that award only larger sums. Apply for small scholarship amounts as well.
- Collect the materials you need. Some scholarships require recommendations, transcripts, or other materials.
- Make a calendar of due dates for each application.

APPLY

- Apply to many scholarship programs, not just a few.
- Do your best: send in a finished, edited draft of your application.
- Make sure your application is complete and arrives on time.
- Contact the scholarship provider to make sure they received your application.

FOLLOW UP

- Get in touch with the scholarship providers if the notification date has passed and you haven't heard from them.
- If you don't win, don't let it get you down. Ask the scholarship provider what you could have done to make your application stronger, and use that advice to improve your future applications.

DID YOU KNOW THAT MORE THAN $134 BILLION IN COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS IS AVAILABLE TO STUDENTS AND THEIR FAMILIES?

If you dream about going to college but wonder if it is too expensive, this guide is for you.

We believe every New York City student can go to college.
Check out our website at www.newvisions.org/collegebound/index.asp for more tools that can help make college possible for you.

CITI FOUNDATION believes that investing in education is one of the most important contributions to help young people develop and be successful in the workplace, contribute to the economy and lead productive lives. Through its "Building Bridges to College and Careers" initiative, Citi Foundation will address a critical challenge in American education - how to dramatically increase the number of low-income and first generation students who enroll in higher education and earn a degree.

NEW VISIONS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS, founded in 1989, is the largest education reform organization dedicated to improving the quality of education children receive in New York City's public schools. Working with the public and private sectors, New Visions develops programs and policies to energize teaching and learning and to raise the level of student achievement.
